Roller Blinds

A roller blind is a single cloth that rolls around a casing and fits into the top of a window frame. These blinds are either within or outside the recess. A pull cord attached to the bottom of the blind or a side-winding chain mechanism attached to the blind casing help control the roller blind.

Zebra Blinds

Zebra blinds, also called dual blinds, are a modern roller blind alternative to horizontal blinds consisting of alternating horizontal opaque and sheer fabric stripes, these blinds transition from day to night easily.

Roman Blinds

Roman blinds work as one piece of flat fabric which gradually folds as the strings are pulled. Roman blinds are pleated so that when they are opened, they form neat, clean folds and when they are closed they lay flat again a clean and minimalist look.

Panel Blinds

Panel blinds system includes a minimalist track (3/4/5 way) into which the individual fabric panels are mounted. Each panel is wider than conventional vertical blinds about the same width as a typical doorway allowing broad spans to be covered with just a few panels.

Vertical Blinds

Vertical blinds are blinds whose slats are arranged vertically and are all connected to a sliding head rail. They usually have wide and long slats with many loose gaps in-between them and which can be adjusted by tilting 180 degree. Their graceful but relaxed look makes them ideal for wider windows, patio doors and covering sliding glass doors.

Wooden Venetian

Wooden Venetian blinds(35MM & 50 MM) are a type of window treatment made from horizontal slats of wood that can be adjusted to control the amount of light that enters a room. They are typically operated using cords or wands that tilt the slats to an open or closed position, or raise and lower the entire blind.
